Document Services

Acrobat.com's Document Service's APIs provide a standards-based way for developers to quickly add its features to new and existing applications. The service's REST-based interfaces help users store, manage, and share documents without the need for 3rd party applications such as email. Since the documents live online, users can access them anywhere and anytime there is an Internet connection. The REST protocol enables API access for any environment able to work with HTTP GET and POST requests.
